Message From the Dean

As I write this message, Edmonton is experiencing one of those tantalizing days that give us all a foretaste of Spring and make it difficult for everyone to study for exams. I know that this is especially true for those of you in third year who have been trying to motivate yourselves for one last push to bring your university careers to a successful conclusion.

By the time you read this, exams will be but a distant memory and the members of the Class of 2003 will be embarking on the next step in their careers. At the Graduation Banquet, I was asked to identify the characteristics that make the Class of 2003 unique. The U of A Law School has a terrific student body that is committed, involved, and at the same time has an enormous sense of fun. The Class of 2003 shares the characteristics of the law school as a whole and has had a huge sense of community and involvement in law school activities. This sense of community involvement is also the key to the enjoyment of a successful professional life. You will find your career far more satisfying if you make yourself part of both the legal profession and the wider community and remember all the positive attributes that have made law school such a satisfying experience.

You are graduates of a very good law school. Thanks to the efforts of my colleagues over the last few years, there is no doubt that the national standing of the U of A Law School has never been higher. I congratulate the Class of 2003 for its achievements. I hope that you will all stay involved with your law school, spread the word of your experiences here and participate in our exciting progress.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

I must say I'm writing this address with some trepidation, given that it is third year and before I know it, the salad days of law school will be but a collection of fond memories.

For me, the law school experience here at the University of Alberta can be described as nothing short of fabulous. It was nothing I thought it would be, in the sense that student life equalled and often surpassed in significance the academic rigours of attaining the LLB. When I look back on the most satisfying and rewarding moment of the last three years, the FABS, Carbolic, SLS shifts, Law Show practices, and of course, just hanging out at the couches guzzling the Java Jive all come to the forefront of my mind.

As President of the LSA, I am very fortunate to be a part of an organization that contributes to and (hopefully!) improves the quality of law student life. This year I have come to the realization that those of us who have enjoyed law school the most are the people who have given back through participation in social activities, sports, extra-curricular events and volunteer student organizations. I have a strong suspicion that in the real world, whether it be a big firm, a small firm, or public practice, it won't be any different. As you turn the pages of this yearbook, one will see again and again students giving of their time, talents and personalities in many ways that collectively make this law school what it is.

I wish the Graduating Class of 2003 the best of luck and good wishes as we embark on the future!!

Sincerely,
Jennifer Lepp

The U of A Canadian Bar Association (CBA) Law Students Section is one of over thirty provincial CBA sections. Our mandate is the introduction of law students to the social aspects of legal practice. Events such as section meetings, guest speakers, morgue tours, and our famous mentor program create invaluable bonds between our law students and the wider legal community. The CBA Law Students Section hopes to increase membership by maintaining upper year student interest. It is very important to maintain the bonds upper year students make at CBA events since there may be lawyers who could introduce them to a field of interest. The U of A law program's extracurricular experience is diverse, and the CBA gives students a way to reach out and develop an understanding of the legal community.

Yearbook Committee

We hope that you enjoy going through the pictures in the yearbook, and that they bring back good memories of law school for you, especially for those of you who have started articling. There are many people who have helped with yearbook by taking and donating pictures. In particular, we would like to thank Catherine Miller, Christa White, and Ramona Salamucha. As well, special thanks to Martine Sallaberry for her help.
